the election cycle

every four years a national cycle occurs, elections. much preparation was made, as voter registration, stuffing mailboxes with election literature, and working for our candidate took place. this election takes place on november 7, 1972, between the two major candidates, senator george mcgovern and president richard nixon.

a cycle of change and growth

In 1878, the first school catalog was written in german for the students. following the model of a german "gymnasium" with the emphasis on latin, greek, and proficiency in the german and english languages. also required were courses in religion, history, geography, mathematics, science and music.

since that time, the curriculum has been expanded to 27 major areas, and elmhurst college has become the first chicago area private, liberal arts college to offer a complete four-year sequence in urban studies.

today, elmhurst college is reducing its full time faculty positions for the 1973-74 academic year from 115 to 100, as a part of a program to maintain a balanced-budget. the reduction was made to counteract a decline in student enrollment.

the cycle of change in '73

in Europe. The perspective and a sense of personal issues about home seem to dominate. Europe's traditional institutions are being challenged and traditional methods of government are being questioned. In the United States, the political system is becoming more polarized and divided.

In the United States, the population is becoming more polarized, with a sense of division between the rich and the poor, and a sense of division between the old and the young. The political system is becoming more divided, with the two major parties, the Republicans and the Democrats, becoming more polarized and less willing to work together.

The world has not yet escaped from the darkness. The long shadows of conflict and despair are still Institutions do not age. Their leadership determines the quality of their being, since it changes. Certain characteristics are made manifest according to these, judgment is passed on the institute. — Dr. Timothy Lehmann 1946

"Today I'll take a break out of the activities and responsibilities of my position," wrote Dr. C. Neal Davis in 1973.

In my position I have the opportunity to work with many people in the ## think jazz!

Elmhurst College hosted the sixth annual Midwest Jazz Festival March 16 through 18, in the Hammerschmidt Chapel. Throughout a four state region, jazz bands, combos, and vocalists from colleges and universities attended.

The program began Friday evening with a "guest night" performances featuring the Millikin University Jazz Band and festival judges Julian "Cannonball" Adderley, David Baker, Nathan Davis, Rich Matteson, Rufus Reid and Ed Soph. The festival's first two competition sessions began in the afternoon and later in the evening on Saturday.

David Baker, head of the jazz studies at Indiana University and chairman of the six-member judging panel, served as music director during the jazz worship service Sunday morning. The 11 a.m. service was open to the public.

Head of jazz studies at Indiana University and chairman of judging was David Baker.

Featured at guest night was "Cannonball".

The final round of competition was held in the afternoon with the all-star band and the festival's winning band, Lawrence University, and combo, University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire, performed Sunday evening.

roman pucinski

congressman roman pucinski, a candidate for the united states senate, presented his views to the campus community and the public on september 22nd. the program was sponsored by the elmhurst college religious life committee, which featured a presentation by pucinski following the question and answer period.

pucinski was first elected to congress in 1958 and he has been elected six times. he is a member of the house committee on education and labor, the veterans affairs committee, and he is chairman of the subcommittee on general education.

among the measures which pucinski helped to create were the clean air act, the coal mine health and safety act, the equal rights for women act, the 18-year-old vote resolution, and the emergency employment act of 1971.

the incumbent governor of illinois, richard ogilvie, spoke to the academic community and the public on october 10. the candidate for re-election came in his campaign wagon with promotion men to pass out literature and find where the student vote rested. governor ogilvie served as cook county sheriff before his election as governor.

this program was sponsored by the religious life committee to enable our academic community to meet, hear, and question the candidates in preparation for the up-coming elections. other speakers have included the rev. james wall, and congressman john erlenborn of the 14th congressional district.

mr. kenneth mills, from yale university, spoke at the niebuhr lecture series on black liberation: a philosopher's view. three lectures were given march 4th through march 5th on the subject matters of "race relations", "history of blacks in the american economy", and "racism as a political stabilizer". a dinner was held after the march 4th presentation.

politics, liberation, and "honest to god"

backed by the elmhurst peoples party, ray w. fick came to speak to elmhurst college people for support as he ran for the city's mayor. he is an attorney and in partnership in chicago law firm of herrick, mcneill, mcelroy and peregrine. he has lived in elmhurst for 14 years, is married and has two children. his many activities include: member and chairman of the elmhurst zoning board of appeals; college of du page referendum; trustee, college of du page foundation; speaker's bureau for illinois constitutional convention and past member and director of the elmhurst jaycees.

ms. dorothy lentz campaigned for support for the position of city clerk. she too, is supported by the elmhurst peoples party. she has been the city clerk of elmhurst from 1969 to date; secretary, elmhurst chamber of commerce, and has been a resident of elmhurst for 20 years. she is married and has two children. her activities include: co-chairman of elmhurst co-ordinated services committee; past secretary and president of hawthorne pta; boy scout and girl scout volunteer; and y.m.c.a. volunteer.

j.a.t. robinson on his tour of the united states, lectured at elmhurst college to announce his new thesis "human face of god". ten years ago, bishop robinson was a controversial figure after his publication "honest to god" where he called for a radical change in the image of god that man conceives today.

during his visit to elmhurst college, bishop robinson, newly revealed his plea for a radical reformation of our image of christ, borrowing themes from such contemporary theologians as rudolf bultmann and dietrich bonhoeffer.

bishop robinson's appearance was sponsored by the religious life committee and dr. robert schieler. dr. robinson is dean of the chapel and college lecturer at trinity college, cambridge, england.

black affairs presents "awareness week"

the black student union of elmhurst college held their "second annual black awareness week". the purpose of the week was to awaken the public to the talent of black people on our campus. the money raised was put into the black student scholarship fund. a fashion show, lectures, films, dramatic presentations and a cavalcade of gospel music headlined the schedule of activities, when "black awareness week" was held march 31st through april 8th, on campus. sammy green, student chairman of the event, stated that "the program is being held at focus attention on the cultural and social contributions of black people both to campus life and to society".

the festival of fools returned this year as super f.o.f. due to the efforts of social life. for four days no one could complain that "there is nothing to do on campus or on weekends." the festival sponsored a free dance. there were many activities. the joker arrived in an ambulance. the winner of the bed race around the mall, in the pie eating contest jeff roberts gobbled his way to victory. amy lowry and her partner were the winners in the egg-tossing contest. steve suslik won the roller-skating contest and debbie oatis blew an eleven inch bubble in the bubble gum blowing contest. then there was a chance to vent your hostilities by throwing pies at campus administrators. reno night was a sure bet for entertainment and a chance to win prizes. f.o.f. was not foolish — it was a fool-proof way to have fun.

102nd graduation at elmhurst college

the heavy spring rains forced the 102nd baccalaureate in hammerschmidt chapel on sunday, may 27th. more than 475 students are expected to receive the bachelor of arts or the bachelor of science degree.

the reverend william sterling cary, president of the national council of churches, new york, gave the baccalaureate sermon at 11 a.m. sunday morning in the chapel.

the commencement exercises began at three o'clock in the afternoon with a processional of the college graduates and the faculty. illi-

3. wait through rain, sleet, and snow while everyone butts in line. (next year, get coffee and rolls and go to the front of the line. say that one of the pros ordered out.)
4. business office check out. if you get caught not paying a bill, go to end of line. no money — no classes!

5. now you're on your way to the information-data check out! if you do not know your social security number go to end of line. make sure you make all the corrections in the empty spaces. you don't want the records office referring to you as mr. donald duck.
6. you may now enter the chapel hall.

7. wait in line and see your section of english comp. and biology close.
8. sections close and now you must alter your schedule or go to jail and do not collect $200.
9. final check out and you get 2 out of 4 classes you wanted. (only kidding!)
10. comfort dear player, when you're a senior you can register at 8:00 instead of at 11:00.

"are you sure you can't fit that class in?"

clc provides channels for student opinions

the primary function of clc, is to provide channels for student opinions, concerns, and complaints. they hear the grievances and try to determine the necessary action or recommendation. clc initiates ideas and refers these recommendations to committees with power to enact them. they try to make sure their recommendations are considered. interpreting policies set by the board of trustees is part of clc's work.

specific activities include: faculty/course evaluations; meetings with dormitory residents to investigate their preferences on future dorm life; seminars to provide students with information on planning (e.g. long-range planning), generally, clc tries to get information to the students on what is in store for the future before it is too late for their input to be considered.

clc also selects students for who's who, approves budgeting of student activities fees, selects students for standing committees (academic council, faculty council, etc.) ad hoc committees this year, that meet independently, residence life, food service, faculty evaluations, and academic affairs.

members that are not pictured: magoo estrin, dan lacine, laura sova, marcello aguilar, susan butler, gus nicolopoulos, judy crews, barb jones, dr. pierro, dr. tracy and mr. cunningham.

e club holds banquet

Jim Seymour, receiver for the Chicago Bears, was the guest speaker at the fall athletic awards banquet Tuesday, November 14. The program was held in the lower level of the College Union building.

Judge William J. Bauer, U.S. District Court, Northern District of Illinois, and a '49 graduate of Elmhurst College, emceed the banquet. While he was at college, Judge Bauer was a football letter winner and a member of the college's "E" Club, which sponsored this year's awards dinner. Mr. Schousen, Director of the Athletic Department and Coach Wendy Harris presented the fall sports awards.

Judge Bauer addressed the guests at the dinner.

ed club grows

this year ed club has changed its outfit somewhat: instead of being just a club it also is a social sect. it lends not only to campus work, but to outside activities such as visiting various communities schools.

ed club is set up for education majors and anyone who is interested in any field of education. these students can be found once a week discussing business over a quiet luncheon atmosphere.

the elmbark dies and birth is given to a "newspaper"

the elmbark was published almost every week during our first semester. it contained feature and news stories, editorials, sports, and on the lighter side "just ask" and "all you wanted to know about music ...". but somewhere between christmas break and second semester the elmbark died. the reasons could vary from lack of experience, staff, motivation or not getting credit.

when this matter of not having a school newspaper came to the attention of clc, a concerned group of students came forward and produced what we now have, the newspaper. many changes have been made with this publication in the format, articles and philosophy. they went before union board after the first issue came out and are formally recognized as the school newspaper. good luck on further issues!

gamma theta upsilon — geography club

gamma theta upsilon, geography club, is an honorary society that is available to recognize scholastic achievement in the field of geography.

during the year, g.t.u. went on field trips to starved rock and the morton arboretum. the fall picnic at dr. roberts, christmas party and spring picnic are some other special events that take place.

several students of g.t.u. attended the national council of geographic education convention in milwaukee. their future plans are to include more field trips, speakers, and movies. the officers for the year are: president — gary chapman, vice-president — dave kamenz, secretary — barb warthen, and treasurer — pam weir.

poly and glee — still going strong

women's polyhymnia and men's glee club, both under the direction of mr. david austin, began the school year with a fall program in the student union. this was followed by a christmas program and sing-along. their spring program featured a variety of numbers ranging from secular music, songs in italian, latin, german, and hebrew to popular tunes. on registration day the groups closed the school year with a program of light music and popular songs.

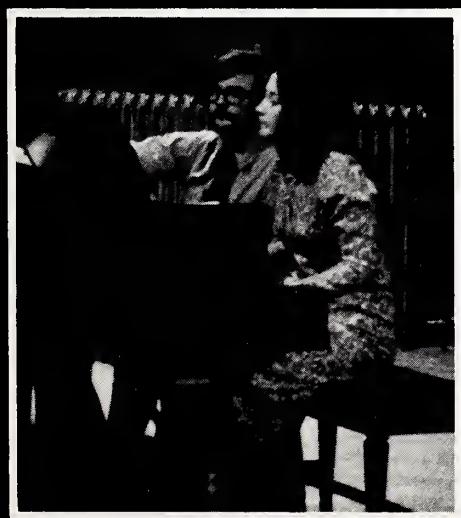

glee club would like to be able to have some added recruits for the 73-74 school year, and poly hopes to attract singers by offering to work more on popular music.

the only place where coffee is free: f.u.

the purpose of the free university is to provide the students with a chance to learn something that is of interest to them. some of the courses offered at the f.u. are: sailing, taught by dr. bidle and dr. holbrook; an art class taught by ms. brown and the free university chess club that is now in intercollegiate competition. the f.u. also sponsors a paper called the "f.u. gazette, the journal of applied metaphysics." that is very entertaining.

every friday afternoon at 3 o'clock the f.u. has an informal rap session where students and faculty can get together in the iron apartment and become better acquainted. anyone and everyone is invited to partake of the f.u. functions and all are guaranteed of a good time.

after dinner music

new to our establishment this year is music educators. these talented music majors have organized together "to make menc a workable and enjoyable organization on campus."

menc sponsors a dinner every month to discuss forthcoming speakers and special programs. one such speaker, a regular on campus every year for the jazz festival was chuck suber.

at a typical dinner frequent speakers are cheryl kancer, kathy goeke and kathy tendall can be found as the president, vice president and secretary-treasurer.

s.t.o.p. signs

students to terminate overpopulation and pollution is better known as s.t.o.p. its fifteen members are kept busy with various activities. a member will cringe if he hears the clink of cans crashing down the trash chute. s.t.o.p. has placed garbage cans in various places in the dorms. the cans and bottles that are collected in this way are recycled. s.t.o.p. is also known for sponsoring an annual retreat at tower hill, michigan. this provides environmental enthusiasts with the chance to learn more about nature's novelties. this retreat also provides the opportunity to enjoy the surroundings away from an urban area. a back-packing trip to kettle moraine state park in wisconsin had e.c. students finding out how out of shape they were. the back-packers learned how to use a compass and how to fix and stomach freeze dried food. a paper drive and a bike trip are being considered for the future by s.t.o.p. s.t.o.p. is always on the go. the officers that helped keep it going are ed momkus/gary lisk, co-chairman; and cindy brandt, secretary.

The Elmhurst College Pre-healing Arts Club, newly formed this year, has been granted provisional recognition by the Campus Life Council. It is a club devoted to the organization and advancement of students entering medical fields, including pre-medical students, pre-dental students, nursing students, and others who are in related fields. Officers for this organization were: Bonnie Hatmaker — president, Richard — vice president, Carol Mashko — secretary, and Randy Taylor — treasurer.

women's honorary exists

after a slow start, women's honorary started to function in the spring semester. the major problem existed in the fact that the group needed a faculty advisor rather than have a staff member of e.c. act as one.

president: barb lucks
vice president: sue valastyan secretary/treasurer: chris landem sergeant at arms: carla sickbert advisor: dr. jean tracy senior women are tapped into women's honorary if they obtain a cumulative average of 3.0 or better in their last junior or first senior semester.

the main function of the honorary this year was to select the faculty member of the year. the faculty member is elected based on that person's teaching abilities plus the rapport and outside activities she or he holds.

with a good foundation started, women's honorary will build in the future.

union board provides well rounded programs

"there's nothing to do!" so often this complaint is heard and it worries the nine active committee chairpersons who lead the programs. if only the students would get their rear's in gear, they could get involved with ramsey lewis trio, intramurals, bramwell fletcher, muddy waters, jazz festival, black awareness week, s.t.o.p. retreats, cage, a yearbook, two newspapers, and an on campus radio station, just to mention a few.

the union board provides programs in social, religious, recreational, and cultural programs to all members of the community and campus. through allocation of the student activity fee each committee produces an extra-curricular program. so, folks if you say there's nothing to do, just come and join any of these committees and they'll put you to work!

This is the 26th year of broadcasting, serving the campus and community this year with “Freedom Rock”. The radio station also broadcasts all E.C. football and basketball games and other public services. students the yearbook staff took a random poll to find out where the students stood on the topic of sports, especially in the area of intercollegiate competition. there was a great division on what sports can do for a person and listed below are some of the responses received. the questionnaire was sent to student-at-large, students involved in sports, and the faculty. the poll had questions such as these, what does good sportsmanship mean to you? do you feel elmhurst college students exhibit good sportsmanship? how does the sport program affect the school? and how does sports program affect one's growth?

competition is beneficial in the ways of "being a good source of identity and pride, if these are arrived at and dealt with properly.

sports for me is "relaxation, an outlet to sharpen up physically after mental exhaustion" the sports program affects one's growth by "there's too much pressure and poor sportsmanship, the latter conditions resulting in morons." — cary adams.

the sports program affects the school "when you keep a psychopath like _____ around, not much." good sportsmanship is "suppressing some emotions." i go to intercollegiate games "to drink, have fun". — allen etheridge.

ways in which competition is beneficial is "keeps one's spirit to win and try to improve." elmhurst college students "don't exhibit good spirit, but our sportsmanship is fair." the sports program "gives a sense of pride to the team and should help one to meet others." — cindy krauth.

athletic competition

the sports program "costs too much!" "most think of only winning" than exhibit good sportsmanship. the p.e. courses should be continued "but different perhaps, with emphasis on building the body, not competition" — diana gallardo, student. good sportsmanship is "be a good winner or a bad loser, but in both cases keep your mouth shut." sports are for everyone in "enjoyment — yeas! in participation — no!" the sports program affects one's "growth mentally as well as physically" — ken brinker, on tennis team.

I go to intramural games "to watch other good athletes that love sports, but have different interests." the sports program affects one's growth in "it is another area of interest broadens a person's mind. — mike papoccia, football player.

I go to intramural games to "get to know people, fun, like to organize things, feel more a part of the school." sports for me "is an outlet for frustration and good exercise." sports affects one's growth in "physical growth strengthened with exercise, mental growth and social growth with competition and participation." — bonny kocoras, '73-74 co-chairperson of athletic life. ## team co-op wins

'72 was a great season for the jays, ending with six wins and only three losses. a great offense unit boosted the team third in NAIA district 20, and first in the district under rushing. statistics indicate the blue jays conducted 2686 rushing plays and 476 pass plays.

mike papoccia received the honor for the most yards rushing, 839, a new elmhurst record. mike also scored 60 game points, fourth in the district. dale renner, the team's punter was second in the district for kicking 37.9 points. on defense, al mackey stood out with 90 tackles and two assists. dale roberts racked up six interceptions which could not be unnoticed.

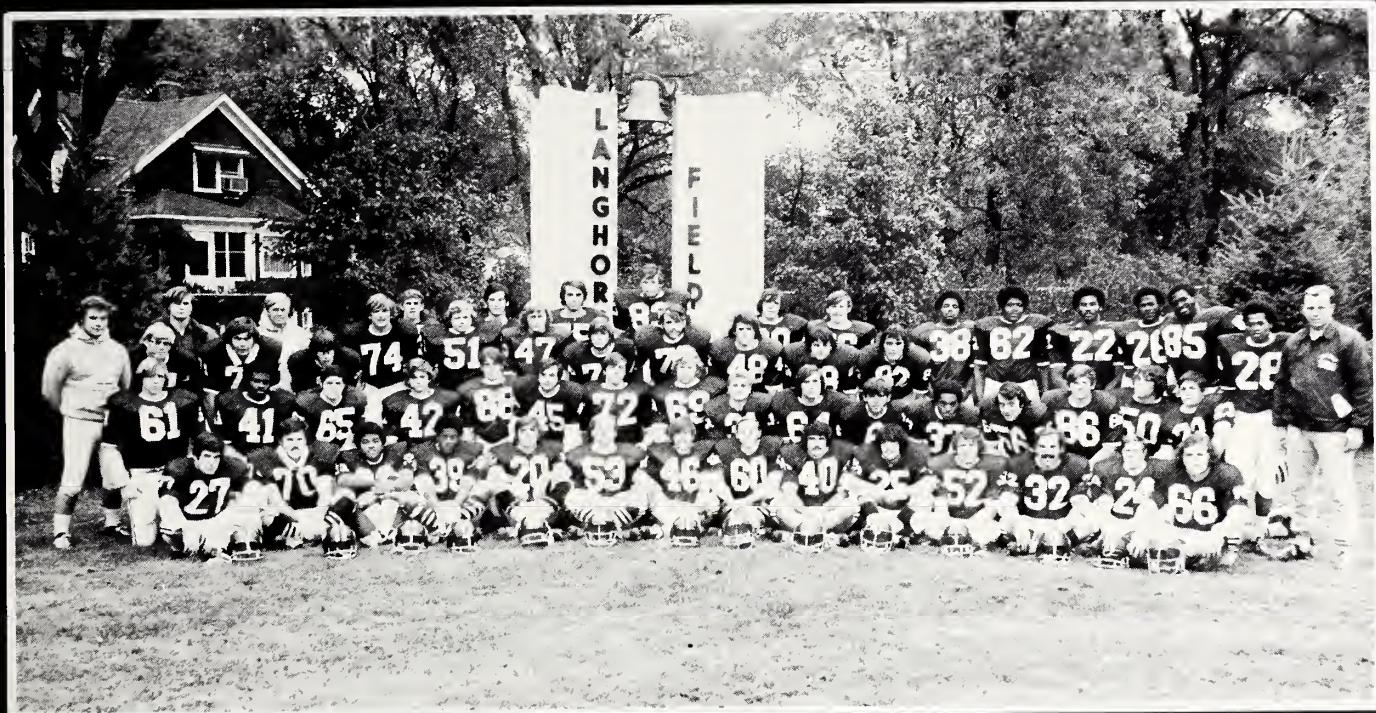

with teamwork our fantastic jays hit hard and should be congratulated for their great efforts, guided by coach harris.

cagers enjoyed banner season

the elmhurst college basketball bluejays enjoyed one of their finest seasons in the school's history.

led by a fast break, run and gun offense, the bluejays finished with an overall record of 15-11 and 10-6 in the college conference of illinois and wisconsin.

that mark left them in a second place tie in the league with illinois wesleyan and millikin.

elmhurst opened with four straight victories as junior guard claude white quickly showed the form which was to make him the most exciting player in the cciw.

white shattered several school scoring marks, including most points in one game at 44; total points in one season, 597; most field goals attempted, 554.

in addition, white captured the conference scoring championship despite missing five games due to scholastic ineligibility. he scored 375 points in 11 contests for a sizzling 34.1 points per game average and was high with 152 field goals and 71 free throws.

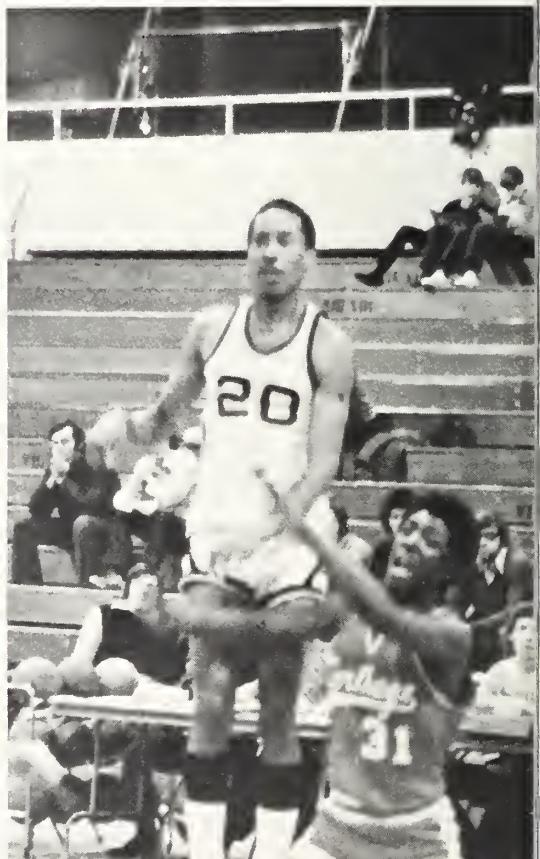

cal saunders, jim trench and albie burks developed into the finest front line in the conference playing at a decisive size disadvantage. in rebounding saunders and burks finished third and ninth respectively in the cciw.

looking ahead to next year, elmhurst coach jon hawthorne will have bill simpson and burks returning along with promising junior mike sulkowski and hopefully white and brad travis.

probably the biggest problem facing coach hawthorne will be replacing saunders, a four-year star for the bluejays. cal was the value point leader for the club this season.

grapplers place fourth in cciw

it was an injury-plagued season for the elmhurst college wrestling squad, but the jays came up with a fine effort to take fourth in the college conference of illinois and wisconsin meet.

elmhurst totalled 48 points behind league champion north park, wheaton and augustana, fifth-place illinois wesleyan and 32 1/2 points.

dave kuban capped an outstanding sophomore campaign by winning the cciw championship in the 142 pound division. he finished with an 18-2-1 record.

"remember, pete, wrestle your own style."

g. goebel's foe is cruisin' for a bruisin'.

having the advantage on his way to third place in cciw conference meet is randy degenhart.

in the finals, kuban met doug pinkham of wheaton and came away with a 16 to 5 victory. dave allowed pinkham five escapes, pushed him away and then took him down again.

the results gave kuban three championships for the year as he had already captured titles at the north central and wheaton invitationals. he and carthage's tom adams were voted the most outstanding wrestlers in the cciw meet.

elmhurst had two second place winners; greg goebel in the 190 pounds category and doug gorham in the heavyweight class.

the performance left goebel with an overall record of 20-5-1 in his freshman year.

at heavyweight, an injury prevented gorham from competing for top spot as he was forced to forfeit the final match.

the elmhurst senior pinned wheaton's dave sugarbaker in 3:37 and won the semi-finals by default. augustana's bob olson was disqualified when he used an illegal hold in slamming gorham to the mat.

that move also put gorham out of action as he popped his shoulder out and it was impossible for him to continue.

randy degenhart, a freshman, and junior joe la rocca came through with third places for the bluejays.

degenhart lost his first match, but in the wrestle-backs, he took a pair of decisions while la rocca followed the same pattern in his weight class.

two seniors who have had fine careers at elmhurst, ron and don stuart, were both injured in the first round matches and were unable to continue.

intramurals: comes alive

let's give it another try! and that's what we did this year. intramurals came to existence after they became defunct last year, due to many disturbances. this program helps to produce healthy competition between teams from faculty, dorms, and organizations. the intramural program was created for the student who doesn't have the talent or the time to play varsity sports, but likes to play for fun.

Women get involved

The E.C. women's basketball team competed at Circle campus and placed fifth out of 12 games with a record of 3-1. Our team had to compete against Circle, Loyola, DePaul, and Chicago State within a span of twenty-four hours. The tournament was held for all small college women's teams in the northern Illinois area. The team consisted of Lain Robertson, Bonnie Benning, Jill Olson, Karen Young, Ha Clement, Carolyn McCollum, Sheila Ward, Pat Muccianti and Darlene Karabis with their coach Ms. Hackman, the team finished with a 9-4 record.

This year under the direction of Coach Andres, E.C. AHS organized a girl's track team. Coach Andres said that originally one of the girls came up to him and expressed an interest in a girl's team, and she felt that others would be also. The girls participated only in the cross country event, possibly other events such as the 100, 220, 880, the mile, and the high jumps will also enter the picture.

this year the synchronized swim club attended the 19th annual international academy of aquatic arts festival. the festival was held at the university of manitoba in winnipeg, canada.

a reception was held on friday, may 4th, at the pam am pool and hall of fame. awards were presented by the two most famous aquatic artists in the world: beulah gundling of the u.s.a. and peg sellers of canada.

even though ms. frederickson, who served as the faculty advisor of the swim team, has been cut, the club will continue next year.

cheerleaders

there were actually two cheerleading squads this year. during football the 8-girl squad really worked hard to drum up some school spirit and give the team backing. then, during basketball the 6-girl squad had to quickly organize itself and teach the newcomers the cheers.

"people don't realize that there is much to learn in a very short time. at some games, two or three girls were missing, which really makes it hard on the remaining squad. but, you can't require attendance at all games. there is a lot of time involved in all the games and practices."

brinker leads netmen

elmhurst college completed its 1973 tennis season with a 4-7 dual meet record and a sixth place finish at the cciw meet in bloomington. it marked the third consecutive year that elmhurst had finished sixth in the conference.

ken brinker, the jay's number three singles player, claimed top honors with an 11-3 record, including nine straight wins at the start of the season. a sophomore, brinker advanced to the conference finals at number three before losing to ted sprinkman from carroll college, the cciw champion.

kim brightbill would have liked to have won more matches.

diana castelli reaches high to serve and hopes that it will go over.

due to graduation, the elmhurst college women's tennis team lost their top three players and had to face tough competition from schools which have built strong teams. but the task of rebuilding the team is not over, for it looks as though only two players from this year's team will be returning next year. things shouldn't be that bleak, though, as coach eileen hackman hopes to recruit some players for a potentially stronger women's team in 1974.

baseball future

this was a rebuilding year for elmhurst's baseball team. the jays finished 11-20 over the season and came in a disappointing seventh in the college conference of illinois and wisconsin, but the future looks bright.

first baseman paul cummings, the team's leading hitter, will be back next season along with such standouts as outfielder dennis sullivan, third baseman rich dziemiela, and shortstop bill simpson. cummings, a junior, was elmhurst's lone representative on the cciw all-conference team.

tim fitzpatrick compiled the best pitching record at 3-3 and also is expected to return. the only starter graduating is catcher tim carlson.

the 1973 baseball schedule was the largest in elmhurst college history and included a 12-game southern trip through alabama and georgia. the coach is ron wellman.

rupnow takes three firsts at eii

the exciting running of ken rupnow proved to be the major highlight of the 1973 elmhurst college track and field team.

rupnow, a junior, finished third in both the 100 and 220-yard dashes at the cciw meet, then won both of his specialties and anchored the winning 44-yard relay team at the elmhurst intercollegiate invitational in may.

after some disappointing results earlier in the season, elmhurst finished third behind carthage and spring arbor in the class b division of the eii. ken reeves was second in both the 100 and 220, bruce lighthall was fifth in both the intermediate and high hurdles, and tom finn got a fifth in the javelin.

the results of the eii were particularly satisfying for coach jerry andres, who left his head coaching duties at the end of the season. he has served as coach since 1970.

dean clark is interested in planning and developing educational programs. "we are interested in good teaching. the college attempts to give students a liberal education." his administrative attitude towards teachers is, "i am constantly amazed by their friendly and cooperative spirit." he enjoys teaching the honors course for freshmen. his favorite past-times include reading novels, travel, and helping to raise two boys.

dean davis is interested in photography, reading, walking, and lapidary art. broadly speaking, he is concerned about higher education and enjoys working with and assisting other people. "i have had many satisfying moments at e.c. the thing which comes immediately to mind is my success in attracting mrs. florence hoogesteger to her new position as director of placement and career planning at elmhurst." he believes that teachers should relate to the community as thoroughly as possible, and as for teachers at e.c., "bless them all, bless them all, the long and the short and the tall . . ."

as registrar and director of the summer session, mr. robert swords finds time to read, listen to music, and relax. during the school year he also teaches two courses in the english department, when speaking to a new teacher he says, "be an individual; recognize a similar quality in your students." mr. swords gets involved almost every year in the homecoming play. this year he played the character of herr schultz in the play "cabaret".

mr. swords is the director of summer school and registrar.

mrs. lake is the secretary to the registrar.

vice president of development

"development and public relations play an increasingly important role for private colleges and universities as the exigencies of the financial crunch for higher education grow more pressing.

happily for elmhurst, the various constituencies of the college are showing increased interest in the affairs of the college and greater willingness to support the academic program.

the future strength of elmhurst is largely dependent upon the degree to which we can continue to rally generous financial support from alumni and friends." — mr. ray ramseyer ## public relations.

"the primary function of the college news director is to inform the public — whether they be community residents, area businessmen, alumni, parents or students — about the activities of the college's faculty, staff and students, as well as the school's academic and extra-curricular programs.

this is done essentially through news announcements and feature articles which are sent periodically to approximately 175 area newspaper editors and radio and television broadcasters; in a bi-monthly calendar of events that is sent to over 2,000 area homes and businesses, as well as preparation of the elmhurst college alumni magazine, the "f.y.i.," a faculty information sheet, and displays. as a part of the college's development office, mr. ramseyer serves his last year with us.

the news director assists in special events, alumni and church related programs. students wishing to publicize their organizations activities and achievements to the public should talk to mr. rasa." — mr. gerald rasa.

dr. schieler is "basically interested in life and helping others to appreciate it."

rev. stoner is "concerned with preserving and restoring our environment."

chaplains show concern

the chaplains of elmhurst college not only set up the worship services, but they show concern in people. they try to relate to everyone the meaning of life and how to appreciate it.

dr. schieler is very concerned with relating to people as human beings and seeks to know them on a personal basis.

admissions and financial aid

the admissions and financial aid is headed by mr. donald weiss. he states that his most satisfying moment is yet to occur, but there are many bright new students. most agonizing for mr. weiss this year was not having sufficient financial aid funds for students in need. "remind teachers that their students are paying over $2,000 a year for an education" is his advice to teachers. hobbies and pastime favorites are reading, "tinkering" and when time for it — golf, no more cycling since his fall last year.

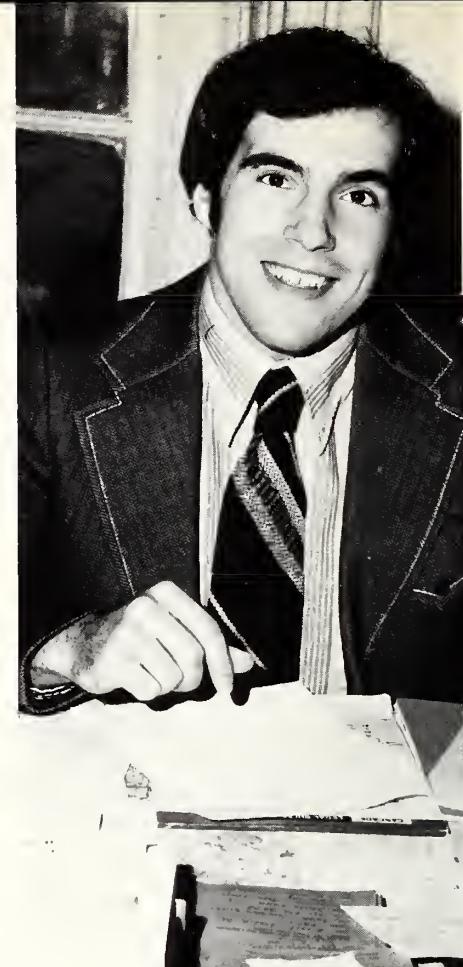

"the wealth of knowledge i've acquired about the transfer and older students coming to e.c." states mrs. "betsy" kuebler, was her most important accomplishment. she deals with students on a one-to-one basis as if they are human beings. she feels the "majority of them (teachers) are delivering the product we sell ... i'm impatient with those who don't." mrs. kuebler also works with financial aid and is satisfied when she is able to help a student.

by attending seminars, convention, and associate with the better people in admissions to learn from them is what mr. michael marsico does to enhance his image. "the day a student filled out an application at a college day after i told him about e.c." was very satisfying to him. mr. marsico also coaches the wrestling team and was very agonized when "finding out that a city champion wrestler with a 25-2 record, who wanted to come to e.c., had a class rank of 1009 out of 1225." some of his hobbies are raising a great dane puppy, skiing, scuba diving and music.

versity school of law. mr. ward has since left the office of admissions to work with the state attorney.

"my most satisfying moment will be in september '73 when we have a full freshman class." answers mr. robert hutchins. he attends professional conferences and reads journals to improve his skills, since he is new to the admissions staff. his main interest at the time is "the buying of a house".

the librarians

"getting caught in the theft detector" was one of mr. melvin george's most embarrassing moments at school this year. he is very satisfied with being in the new buehler library for over a year now. "settling into our new building and maintaining high quality library service" was very important as an administrative accomplishment. faculty cuts also hit the library and it was agonizing for him to tell a professional librarian that because of the college's financial problems, we would not be able to retain him. mr. george belongs to a number of professional organizations, serves on the board of the illinois regional library council, and on an advisory committee to the illinois state library. when he finds the time, mr. george enjoys to read — especially mystery novels, hiking, and cycling.

in the new a.c. buehler library there are display cases which exhibit different works of the arts. this year four original folios of shakespeare's plays and second editions of two plays were on display. the material was on loan from the folger shakespeare library in washington, d.c.

the first folio of shakespeare's plays was published in 1623 and it contained 18 plays. among the plays in the first folio are julius caesar, antony and cleopatra, macbeth, as you like it, twelfth night, measure for measure, the winter's tale and the tempest.

the second, third and fourth folios were also included in the display. they are reprints of the first edition which was sold out after nine years and the owners of the copy rights bought out the second folio in 1632. the second is the earliest folio to contain john milton's poem to shakespeare.

placement office

"predictions for the placement of 1973 graduates have been encouraging; over thirty companies have recruited on campus and the placement office has received over 150 full-time job listings since september. there has been an increase in hiring in most industries. government agencies; however, have had a freeze on hiring and this is expected to continue. in a recent poll of approximately 186 companies, 139 reported that the general business outlook for 1973 was better than 1972, 43 companies reported the same as 1972 and 4 companies reported not as good as 1972.

— mrs. florence hoogesteger placement secretary is ms. tyrell.

ms. hoogesteger is the new placement director.

health service

the college maintains a modern health service equipped to provide out-patient care. the college physician, dr. acosta, is available at regularly scheduled clinic periods on weekdays, and is on call for emergencies. the emergency service at the local hospital is utilized as needed. registered nurses staff the health service clinic during regular hours and share the on-call duty to maintain twenty-four hour coverage.

the health staff includes dr. acosta, ms. currie, ms. dunning and ms. haik.

counseling is emphasized and both the formal and informal counseling program for individuals and small groups is supported and promoted. the professional experience of staff members, dr. alice murata, dr. reid martin, and mr. william lee, as well as the services of members of the chaplain's office, qualified faculty members and personnel from other offices are utilized in meeting the personal, vocational and academic needs of e.c. students. all of the above mentioned services can be found in the basement of niebuhr hall.

rose dilworth is leaving schick and moving into a new house where she and her husband, pete, will be new parents.

the major emphasis of the residence hall program is the provision of adequate living facilities along with opportunities to learn about coping with people. each hall is staffed with a head resident, except for the two upper-classmen dorms, lehmann and irion, which are student run.

this year problems were many with the closing of niebuhr and schick going co-ed, but as the year progressed the problems of extra roommates, new dorm or room assignments settled down.

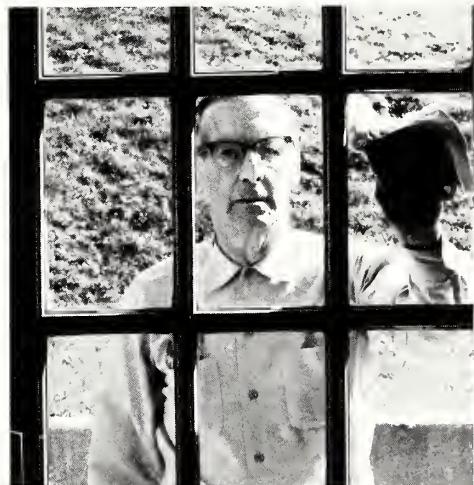

"right now i am completing requirements for ph.d. — also attend professional meetings with membership in professional organizations." replies mr. james barry, director of the housing office. this is mr. barry's first year as the head of housing and with it came many problems.

"probably the key benefit a student can get from housing is an opportunity to learn how to develop better interpersonal relationships." expresses jerry worsham, head resident of "dink". of course dorm life has extras like parties that last all night, wing meetings, noise, stereos blasting you '68 and '73 favorite recordings, and the annual fire alarm. "as i was walking thru the dorm late one night with the lt. of the fire squad during one of our false alarms he growlingly asked me (j. worsham) 'what the blank are all these people doing in the hall.' my reply, 'that's a good question'."

other staff members are cathy shey; head resident of stanger, jerry worsham; head resident of dinkmeyer, rose dilworth; head resident of schick, joan martin and carla sickbert; hall advisors of lehmann, and phil canuto and david schoen; hall advisors of irion.

maintenance

who do you run to when you want something fixed, cleaned or report to about damaged material? the maintenance force of elmhurst college helps keep us functioning through the wear and tear of the school year. each year the staff goes through the dorms to report damages done to the rooms and then the students get those lovely bills for repairs. this year there was excessive damage done to one of the dorms and the residents were notified if the damage was going to cause any additional money the residents would be charged. maintenance was kept on its toes with the usual blown fuses and dirt that was found in the facilities.

security

"carry an umbrella when it is not raining" states officer robert ryan is what he does to enhance his image, but on the heavier side of life, he is most satisfied when his staff was able to reduce the number of thefts on campus. agonizing to officer ryan is "when someone informs us that there will be an additional 200 cars on campus for a special event." he may get mad at those times, but then he could run away from it all and enjoy his favorite past-time of bowling, fishing, and camping. his reply to the most important administrative accomplishment this year was "we seem to have a record of everything but this."

central service and language lab

"the print shop is buzzing, hoping to keep all customers happy; the language lab tries to help students in every possible way with recorded tapes. it still seems to fill a need in spite of reduced language requirements." — mrs. tripp

mail service

"the directing of the college union hasn't altered significantly in 'these times'. the melting together of facility and program to enhance the cultural, recreational, social, and religious atmosphere on campus is the main goal . . . and has been since i arrived. i favor a climate of responsible student management of the program — which should be defined as taking responsibility for planning, initiating, and implementing the program, not segments of it or only those areas of ease and interest. students in union programming offers to take a risk — in time, intellectual commitment, and in some instances, peer adjudication. it takes a special kind of person to present the type of programming we have at e.c. to be successful she/he makes a commitment to working for the entire college community, fully realizing that most of the students prefer to adopt a passive role in accepting their program offerings — or a critical one. such statements as "there is nothing happening on campus" become commonplace to the union programmer — who fully knows the critical source is in error or so buried in his own bag as not to see "what's really happening." my role — aid, facilitate, cajole, suggest, and benevolently criticize those special students who have set themselves apart from the inert others." — james cunningham.

the food service committee of the campus life council was created to examine the problems resulting from the adoption of the various board plan options offered to upper-classmen. it has set itself up as a sounding board for student suggestions concerning the food service. this committee has been examining budgetary problems and the problem of students illegally cooking full meals in the dorms.

on sunday, may 6, 1973, the honor society of elmhurst college held its annual dinner for those upperclassmen with distinguished grade point averages. another function at this dinner is the announcement of the faculty member of the year. this year's award went to dr. jean tracy of the psychology department. surprisingly enough, she was also the speaker at the dinner.

mrs. tracy is an active member of our faculty and is highly interested in children, marriage, and her students. she was selected by the women's honorary which set up the criteria based on teaching ability plus outside activities the teacher holds.

urban studies

urban studies is designed to provide by cross-disciplinary study and emphasis understanding of urban areas and their common concerns and needs. the program is structured to give e.c. students practical fieldwork experience in order to relate theory to practice.

this year students studying "cities in europe" had the experience of going there to study. this course abroad enabled the students to see the various approaches european countries utilize to meet contemporary concerns related to the city. this was designed to foster off-campus experience and to provide an opportunity to study different cultures and governmental structures.

mr. b. rabbit relaxes after an experiment.

new to the biology department this year is mr. c. william fuller. mr. fuller has enjoyed his first year at elmhurst college and feels that for students and faculty alike, elmhurst "is a great place," (although it will take students awhile to realize this). he feels that just like anything else, the college has its good and bad points, but its good points definitely outweigh its faults.

dr. sweeney and his co-author have completed the third edition of their laboratory manual, "laboratory studies of chick, pig, and frog embryos." this manual is now used by more students in the united states than any other manual of its kind.

business

his most satisfying moment is when the students are uniformly achieving a high result in learning which i believe has occurred through the problems i have assigned" states mr. franks. he believes that there is an excellent education available if motivation is there, but that the students don't try hard enough. mr. franks expresses though, his department helps the students in the future by being relevant to the future business man.

probably the most embarrassing moment to anyone and especially to mr. scudiero is "teaching classes with my 'fly' opened. another agonizing moment at elmhurst college this year for him was "having a kidney stone attack during president frick's opening convocation address. these two events were not funny at the time, but now we all can look back at them and laugh. one of the important administrative accomplishments this year was staffing and scheduling 29 day session classes and 43 evening classes. in spite of his problems, mr. scudiero finds time for his interests in teaching, music, theater, opera, and people.

dr. ophardt's motto, "no chemistry, no life."

no life."

dr. john ganchoff explains that a background in chemistry is good "preparation for a career in chemistry or health sciences or ecological studies, giving insight into the nature of the material world and the operations of scientists." he enjoys "having contact with a few good students, who are concerned and aware of at least a small part of the world about them. comparing the students i have now with those of '66, '67, '68, they seem to be better (more dedicated to their interests, at least a little more willing to study, better prepared)." his views of the college are, "students are generally intellectually apathetic. faculty is willing but unable to make the atmosphere stimulating. perhaps too much false sophistication exists. in spite of problems, the smallness is attractive."

dr. robert glogovsky is interested in "almost everything that can be improved." he believes that a teacher should "get involved and be concerned for the student's overall welfare, one should strive to bring out the best in each person." his most satisfying moments are "knowing that the departmental efforts toward academic excellence and human concern are recognized by students."

dr. charles ophardt enjoys reading, gardening and carpentry. he believes that "chemistry is present in some form or another in everyone's life, like it or not!! no chemistry — no life." when asked about today's students, he replied that they "seem slightly more interested than one — two years ago."

dr. rudolf priepeke states that "an essay on the relationship of chemistry to the climate of the times would be too long and completely out of place (irrelevant?) in a yearbook." instead, he lists his credits:

elmhurst college, bs, 1928.

classics

rev. james williams is a one-man team leading studies in the classics department at our college. the department offers course studies in the classics, which include the iliad, the odyssey, archaeology, and mythology; greek, the new testament, plato, and homer; and latin, virgil, cicero, lucretius, and horace.

for non-major student interested in the classics, there are courses offered that do not require knowledge of greek or latin.

during recent years, the classics department has offered interim trips to study in greece and italy.

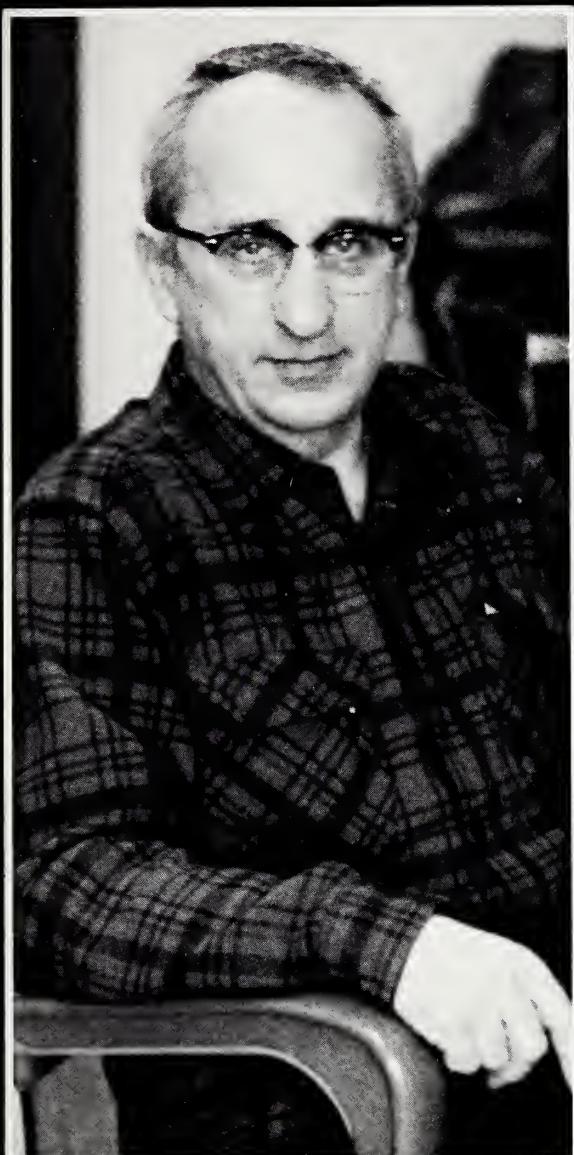

rev. james williams attends a meeting to enhance his image.

economics

"as an instructor in economics, my goal is to equip students with a knowledge and understanding of the material aspects of his social context. specifically, economics attempts to broadly enable the student to gain a knowledge and facility for analyzing the nature, methods and consequences of the material aspects of social organization and action" — mr. c. a. thoma

education

mrs. carol collins enjoys reading and is interested in architecture, tennis and nature. when asked her opinions of ec students she used the adjectives "quiet, orderly, friendly". she sees the college as being conservative, friendly, and having attractive surroundings. as a member of the ed department her concern is for the education student, "does he want to teach, or go into an occupation where he deals with people, planning, and does he like to learn? — then education!"

dr. elmer jacobs explains that, "i am currently involved in a number of projects at the departmental level that have as their theme the individualization of instruction at all levels of education. institutionally i am involved with the work of the faculty council as it attempts to make realistic adjustments in this period of time at elmhurst college. i have also been involved with a committee to establish criteria for the evaluation of interdisciplinary study at elmhurst college."

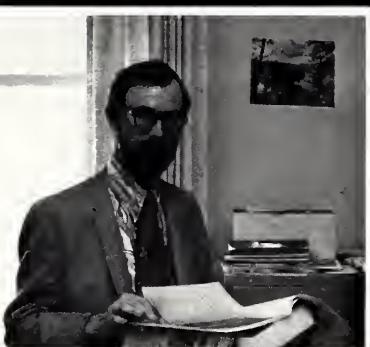

dr. peter pierro was pleased with the first class meeting of graduate programs at ec. "we are interested in developing elementary education teachers for their vocation," students "are getting better all the time — poised, mature, goal-oriented, committed, aware." his view of the college has been "always positive, but now having some fears for our future unless we self-actuate. this has been a most difficult year so far of six years here. there is a need for new directions — new ideas."

dr. ervin schmidt, chairman of the department, participates in discussions, conversations, conferences on education, teacher preparation, photography, travel, art galleries, crafts, handwork, and serves as a member of the district 46 board of education. "teachers are very wonderful people. they accept most severe challenges and heavy work assignments; then do it mostly from altruistic attitudes." he remembers an embarrassing moment this year as "running out of gas as a mini-bus driver in england with a bus load of elmhurst college students."

mr. frederick tyrell, professor of education is also director of the evening session. this year he was involved in "laying plans to extend ec evening session programs to harper community college campus, and to initiate plans for a student to earn a second baccalaureate degree. advice for future teachers is, "a teacher's first and most important responsibility is to teach."

mr. davidson, dr. couchman, ms. ekren, dr. alcoke, and dr. bidle conferring over departmental matters.

dr. alcoke feels the relevancy of the department to his student's future has several pictures. "one concerns work, others concerns vast quantities of leisure and bring an adequate human being with others." he does not have satisfying moments, but rather "everyday is satisfying when something meaningful is happening between me and my students." it is satisfying to do the work for which you are equipped and trained, and to find people willing to listen to what you have to say." students who want to get on his good side should take interest in his hobbies of carpentry, electronics, writing, camping, and cars.

"my present endeavors have some relationships to what i view as a heritage of the timeless — what literature has always been, the various ways in which he has portrayed his human condition." replies mr. davidson. he expresses that "teaching english does not seem to relate to the climate of the times". but several current projects, essays, and a dissertation, might, as they foster a fuller understanding of the problems faced by a prospective writer, make me more generous with freshman themes. so perhaps there is some immediate relevance after all.

dr. bidle has various interests — camping, teaching, film as an art form, and his farm. "literature is the most humanizing of subjects. a well taught literary work is truly liberating." his comments related to this year "all in all, taking a line from dickens, it was the best of times, it was the worst." but i am essentially fatalistic, cynical, and stoical, so i do not really expect too much pleasure from life. tis indeed a bitter-sweet experience."

geography

"geography has much to offer elmhurst college students. first, the content of geography courses often bears a direct relationship to the society in to which graduates are entering." this is dr. bohnert's thought on his relation to the times and himself. he feels that "... in the study of geography an increased awareness for the "interrelatedness" of natural environment, cultural environment, and man is developed." dr. bohnert thinks and feels that the students are encouraged to use their elective course to provide an enriched background for use in geography courses. unlike some disciplines which may be defined in part or totally by the content studied, geography is defined on the basis of methodology.

mr. rouse describes his most satisfying moment as "awarding a's and solid b's to well motivated students who excel themselves (ie. their normal expectations) in my courses." his opinion of the '72-'73 students is "they are much the same as students in other years. some are serious while a small number are marking time and wasting money. the majority apply themselves as their interests dictate and such effort will pay off in varying degrees in their respective futures.

the views of the college, according to mr. ries, "... a period of difficulty, but equipped with faculty to weather the storm if all faculty were truly" full time" faculty. mr. ries states that his department "gives good background on how man interacts with environment, economic pursuits and environmental problems." being involved in discussion of faculty cuts was his most agonizing moment with many others.

german

dr. cecilia c. baumann, chairman of german department, once a professional musician in germany, now limits her playing to the elmhurst symphony in addition to being active in professional organizations.

she is enthusiastically involved in the chicago northern illinois chapter of the american association of teachers of german (aatg), the only organization for all german teachers from elementary school through graduate school.

she is very proud of the "successful arrangement of the many details involved in the oktoberfest, during which visitors enjoyed a german meal, toured the campus, watched three movies, and filled the hammerschmidt chapel for a program with over one hundred participants."

mr. wallace lagerwey explains the relevancy of his department with a student's future as providing skills for translators, tourists, and graduate students. He points out that business is increasingly interested in german for their employees, since many german companies have branches in the usa.

when asked about college students, he replied "we are letting in too many students to the college who have no interest in being here."

he reports that "teaching is satisfying when real discussions take place in class and students suddenly see the meaning of a particular story or understand a crucial difference between american and german society."

800 visitors came to oktoberfest.

dr. baumann likes music, travel and ethnic foods.

mr. lagerwey and dr. baumann confer about class plans.

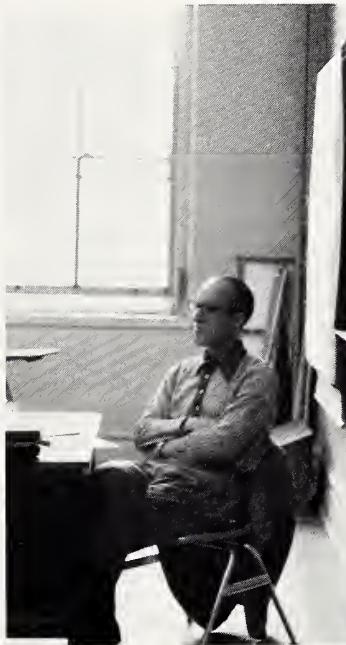

"I wonder why students take sex instead of german?"

"to show a real concern for the students" — dr. schade.

history

dr. rudolf schade, chairman of the history department at elmhurst states "i am not an administrator. i am a teacher." he believes in "showing personal interests in the personal and intellectual growth of the students." his favorite interests include gardening, reading, and speaking to various organizations.

dr. walter burdick related an aspect of his life here at elmhurst, "as a social and intellectual historian i find the contemporary milieu extremely exciting and interesting to analyze and study. historically we find ourselves at a dynamic watershed period, the nature of which shall greatly determine the course of our collective and individual lives in ways heretofore not realized. being an american social and intellectual historian has given me an awareness and understanding of the present as well as the past which i deem to be extremely valuable at this dramatic historical juncture."

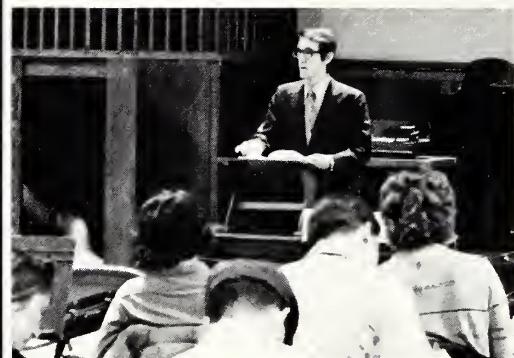

rev. mack is a part-time instructor on campus.

dr. burdick — "a social and intellectual historian."

music

the music department of elmhurst college offers students with an interest in performing the opportunity to become part of a group or to perform individually. it seems as though there are enough interested students on campus who would be willing to become a part of a musical group, but all the musical organizations on campus could use an increase in membership. the music students met this spring with the music faculty to discuss some proposals made by the students, the students are hoping that some changes and improvements can soon be made within the department.

nursing

"the clinical teaching at the v.a. hospital with the first nursing majors in the department" was ms. krampitz's most satisfying moment at e.c. this year. she is the department chairwoman and has done much work with completion of contractual agreement with affiliated agencies. on the question of what do you tell a new teacher at e.c. she replied that "desire to be a role model for others in the department with the importance of involvement with students and faculty" should be stressed.

ms. krampitz announced that the department has received a $5,272 grant from the public health service division of the u.s. department of health, education and welfare. the grant will be used in developing the nursing program during the 1972-73 academic year.

ms. anne carpenter has joined the faculty this year as an assistant professor of nursing. a graduate of brown university, rhode island, and loyola university, chicago, ms. carpenter has worked as a former rhode island public health department member, as a school nurse, and as an assistant to an instructor of nursing at loyola university school of nursing.

mrs. carpenter received a $2,200 grant from the quaker oats foundation to study the nursing care needs of the dying child.

also new to the faculty this year is ms. virginia wenk, an assistant professor of nursing. at the 1972 graduation ceremonies of the university of illinois, her thesis — "the analysis and evaluation of the problem-solving process by means of simulated nursing case problems" — was selected for presentation at the honors convocation.

physics

"physics is the foundation of most engineering, and therefore of most of the material good in the world," states dr. holliday.

"the students in the physics classes are thoroughly enjoyable people with whom to work with", quotes dr. sawyer. chairman dr. sawyer spends most of his time investigating with atomic physics, the electron microscopy and relating with people. also, at other times he's "learning the ropes."

dr. holliday was elated this year when "an outsider told him that the physics department was the best equipped tht he had ever seen." "twelve years ago, dr. holliday had dreamed that ec could become the northwestern university of the west side of chicago." "he no longer feels this way."

physical education

the physical education department of elmhurst college offers a variety of courses to its students. students can choose from more strenuous activities such as swimming and physical fitness to the less strenuous archery and bowling.

this year, the women got involved more than ever in intercollegiate activities. added to the already established tennis and synchronized swim teams, were a women's volleyball, basketball and track team.

philosophy offers many courses to expand the mind for students needs and bridge the gap between curiosities in life styles.

political science

courses in the department are designed for students seeking a basic understanding of the problems of government and politics. this department also prepares students for pre-law as well as governmental work.

the chairman of political science is dr. royal schmidt. he is assisted by dr. david lindberg in many of the courses offered in the political science department.

in the field of sociology, dr. elledge includes interests in social and political issues, social change, search for meaningful values and structures for the modern world.

mr. hays is pleased by the number who told that the best course they have had here was "marriage and the family".

about the relevancy of his department, harrison smith explains that sociology "represents the difference between myopic stagnation and one's effective social usefulness." he adds that ec students range from "basically lethargic but hopefull, all the way to being fantastic. six cheers for elmhurst." he describes his satisfying moments as being too many to remember. "life is beautifully sensuous."

psychology

dr. robert deroo, department chairman tries to "keep up to date as much as possible in my field", by studying visual perception and history of psychology. a rewarding experience was "receiving a copy from one of my former students of a book he has written." his biggest administrative effort this year has been "clearing papers, etc., from off my desk".

mrs. elizabeth howe enjoys music, plays violin with a chamber music group and elmhurst symphony orchestra, and belongs to a french conversation group. in regard to psychology, she believes that "as much knowledge as possible concerning human behavior is important for anyone to have." she remembers pleasurable times as being "cultural events at which students, faculty and community members are enjoying the same thing together."

mrs. diane mufson says that "psychology can be used in professional occupations, as preparation for understanding oneself." she thinks ec students are "great", and that the college is a "good place for an education both in and outside of the classroom."

humans to get a 'handle' on than human behavior?" when asked her views of the college, her reply was "i've been around here since 1955 and i still love it!"

dr. jean tracy explains that her embarrassing moments usually come from talking too much. she loves the college atmosphere at ec. "i have a great deal of academic freedom here to teach the way i want to and cover topics i think are crucial to a good education. i have had exceptionally good classes all year; the students were attentive and seemed to be learning." she expressed satisfaction over "any class experience in which i have the feeling that i am communicating well with the whole class and we are learning together."

speech

the speech department offers students the chance to focus on public speaking, dramatic arts, and general speech. there are a variety of ways to get practical experience in this department. students may work in the campus radio station or do directing, staging, and performing at the college theatre. besides expressing themselves in these activities, students learn how to express their ideas to others. not pictured is mrs. patricia anderson.

theology and religion

the department of theology and religion is a basic and necessary part of liberal arts education. chairman of the department dr. armin limper, holds a "humanist" position and concerns himself with communicating the ramifications of "social change" and meanings of "shalom" in our society.

betwixt whether the essence of life lies in faith or in a romanesque arch, dr. ronald goetz employs a blend of scholarship and wit in his motivating lectures. describing himself as a 12th century individual placed in the wrong era, he copes by deeply involving himself with "students who care about learning."

explaining the religion of america as seen in the history of the black religious experience, mr. van covington specializes in the area of black theology. "i feel there is nothing more vital than theological, moral and ethical perspective for preparing on to deal with life's problems."

the role of chaplin at the college is filled by both dr. robert schieler and rev. donald stoner. having recently received his doctorate, rev. bob is basically interested in life and helping others to appreciate it fully. don stoner is concerned with preserving and restoring the environment. he is also interested in communication within the white church the need to combat white racism.

the department of theology introduces the challenging problems and situations which faith faces and community is affected through.

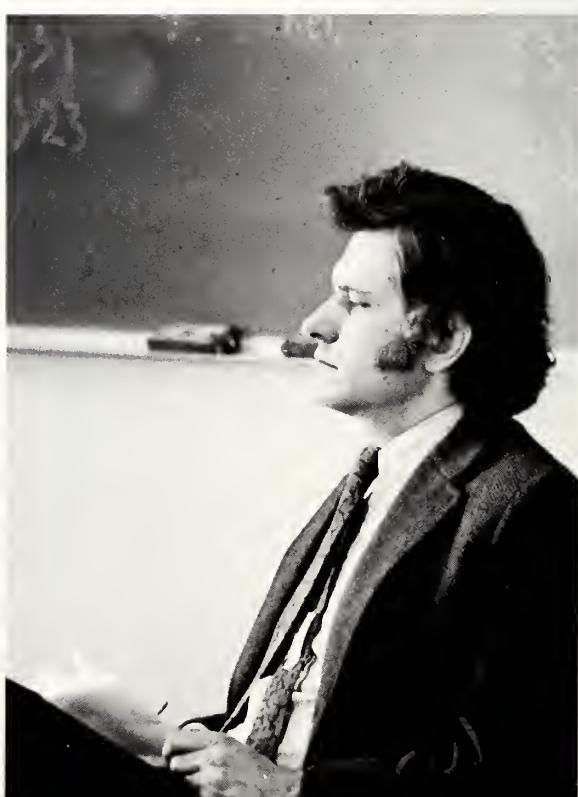

dr. rose explaining the assigned text.

dr. limper's most satisfying moment was "listening and sharing in a lecture/discussion on ancient tamil poetry."

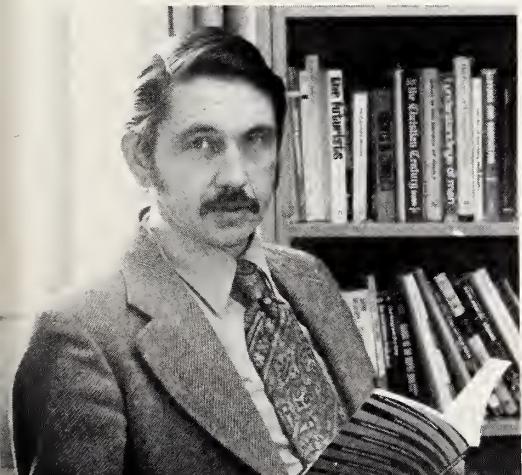

dr. schieler was the liturgist at the jazz worship service.

"those few students who care about learning make it worth while", says dr. goetz.

conversing with students up in Irion hall, is dr. schmiechen.

cycling, travel, and gardening are hobbies of rev. stoner.

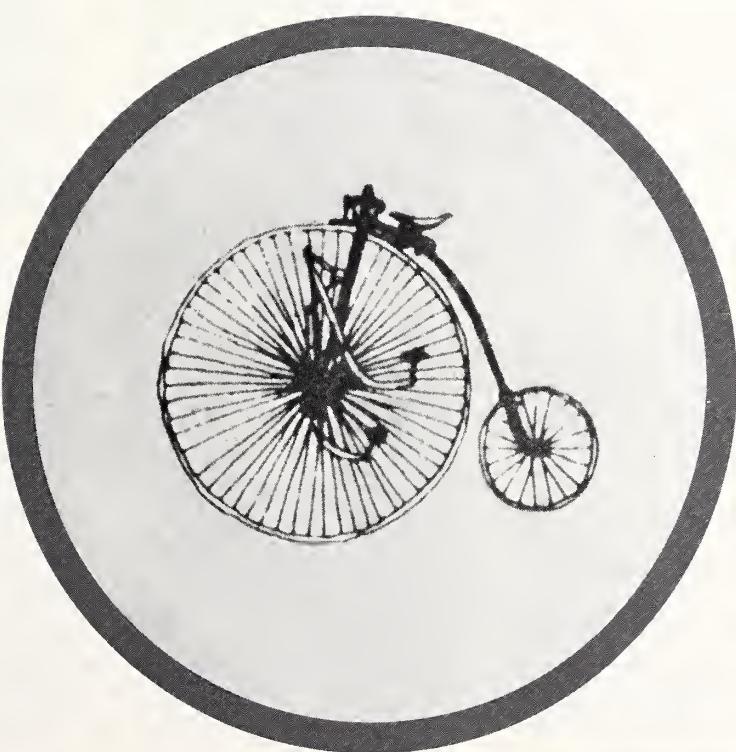

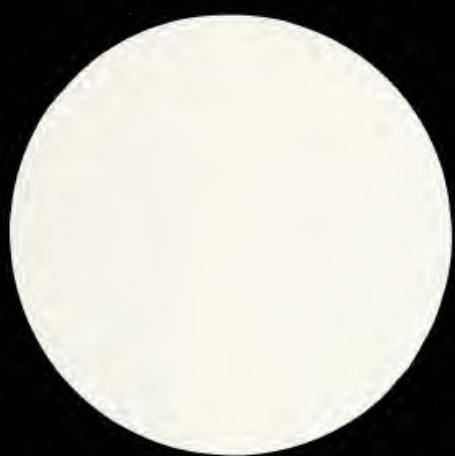

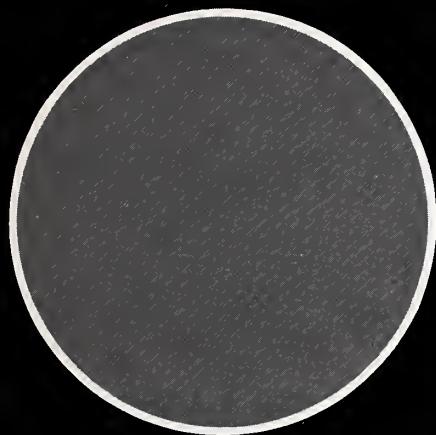

"hopefully, it (theology and religion) can point the student to a greater future than he can now imagine."

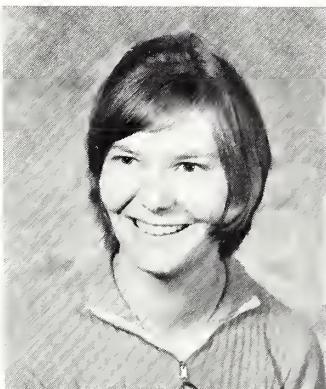

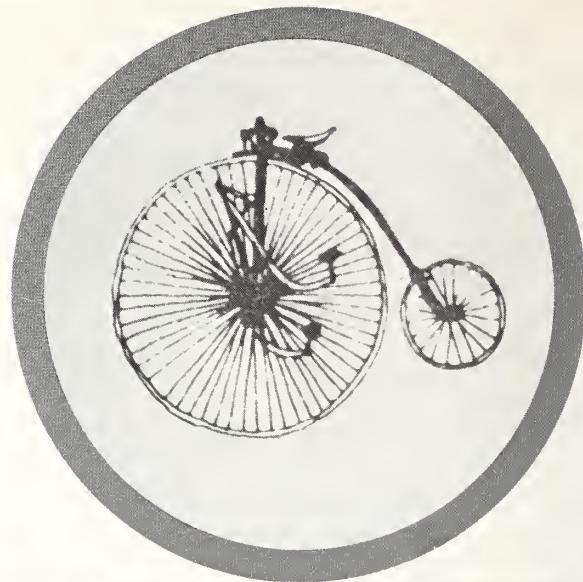

"concerned, critical of hypocrisy, searching for new answers to old problems" are the '73 students, states rev. convington.
